THE NEW POSTMASTER GENERAL.

A Washington correspondent writes that "like every other man whom the public has known little of, and who has been suddenly promoted to an important position, his character and past life are running the gauntlet of active criticism. Everybody is in haste to tell everything he has ever seen about Judge Gresham. As yet no damaging developments occur, and few men entering public life have a record that can better afford scrutiny or contains so little that needs to be concealed or apologized for. He has a large family but no fortune. He is over the medium height, has a broad angular face, a large straight nose, and a thick bushy growth of silver hair. When David Davis was a Supreme Court Justice he sat on circuit with Judge Gresham. Mr. Davis is not given to meaningless compliments, but was often heard to say that Judge Gresham was a man eminently fitted to adorn public life. Davis also warmly urged Gresham upon Garfield for a place in his Cabinet, and he was assigned by Garfield to the Interior Department, but the Republicans of Indiana could not agree upon his appointment. It is told of him as the war approached its close, realizing that if he attained higher honors he would have to make an extraordinary effort, just before riding into the engagement at Leggett's Hill near Atlanta, he said: "Here goes for a major-generalship or bust." He pulled his hat over his eyes, put spurs to his horse, and dashed off with his men. In a few moments he was shot in the ankle and came to the ground, losing his saddle and major-generalship at the same time. He is not a one-legged soldier, and was not shot full of holes, as some of his enthusiastic admirers claim. His general health is feeble from blood poisoning that followed his ankle wound, but he is still said to have great capacity for work, and as the Post Office Department is so admirably officered now, he will move smoothly in his new duties."

The Ogden Pilot says this is an era of railroad building and notwithstanding the frequent assertions that the rails are being laid down faster than the demands of business will justify, still the work goes on and no man can tell when it will stop. Two transcontinental railroads have been completed and now for through connection between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, and at least five other great corporations are bending their utmost energies to get their lines through. The Northern Pacific will have its line completed and in operation by midsummer; the Oregon Short Line will doubtless be completed to Puget Sound within three years; the Atlantic & Pacific and the Texas Pacific, and the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe roads are all pointing westward and doing work looking to the completion of their roads in the near future. Rumor says that the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company's line will evidently be extended from Baker City to Ogden; also, that the Denver & Rio Grande will go through to the Pacific Coast, and that the Utah Central will before long reach the coast of Southern California. In the meantime all the various trunk lines will run out feeders, and the present generation will see a perfect network of railroads in this great Western country.

The National Academy of Sciences met at Washington Monday in the National Museum. Twenty-six members were present, including some of the best known scientific men of the country. Professor O. C. Marsh, Vice President, was in the chair, and Professor Asa D. Hall acted as Secretary.

Ex-President Grant, in introducing to a New York audience ex-Vice President Colfax to lecture upon the late President Lincoln, said he had heard Abraham Lincoln tell innumerable stories, but never had heard one from his lips that might not be repeated from that very platform.

The New Orleans Picayune reckons up a total of $383,500,000 profit to American builders of Mexican railroads through Government subsidies, and suggests that the Republic is being practically sold out to "New York and Boston millionaires."

The Churchman says it needs a bold, resolute man at any time to grapple with the subject of women. It is astonishing how many bold, resolute men there are in Reno, and how persistently they grapple.

The lady teachers of Eureka get better average pay—$100 a month each—than is had in any other town of Nevada.

Scarlet fever has broken out among the horses of New York City. This is strange, but it is true.

Land Grants.

Secretary Teller is now engaged on a very important decision affecting the interests of a very large number of settlers along the line of the Northern Pacific Railroad, as well as those of the Company. Very important legal questions relative to the Company's grant are involved, and were argued before the Secretary several days ago by Roscoe Conkling in the interest of the Company. The original grant was twenty miles in the States and forty miles in the Territories. Afterward there was an indemnity limit of ten miles additional in both States and Territories. In 1872 the question arose in the Interior Department whether the granting act was not in itself the legislative withdrawal of all lands within the granting limits, taking effect immediately upon fixing the general route. An executive withdrawal, however, was made in the States and Territories of the indemnity limits not covered by the legislative withdrawal under the act. The fact that the decision of the Secretary of the Interior in 1872 held that these lands were withdrawn by legislative action operated to keep people off the lands. Thousands are now waiting to take them if they are thrown open. Mr. Reddington is of the opinion that under the decision of the Secretary they will be thrown open to settlement.

The Dynamite Scare

The New York Times illustrates the public nervousness over the use now made of deadly explosives, as follows: The roll of dynamite which was placed in a Brooklyn plumber's shop by some reckless fellow, of course turned out to have been glucose; the crowd which gathered respectively around a dangerous mass of some unknown explosive on the floor of the Postoffice, felt a delightful and simultaneous shiver down its component back when a careless newsboy kicked it, as though it were merely a lump of mud; the four shots which so terrified the valiant guard of Rideau Hall that they did not dare to stir a step to investigate the matter until morning, were fired at muskrats by nocturnal hunters; the terrible infernal machine which "one of the finest" bravely opened at the request of a frightened woman of this city, contained five pieces of soap; and Holland's ram, instead of chasing a British ironclad, has gone into the dry dock, because she is not seaworthy. To which may be added that the report cabled here that an attempt was made to blow up the Salisbury Cathedral is a hoax.

The Star Route Argument.

On Tuesday last the time in the Star route cases was occupied by the discussion as to what should be the order of argument to the jury. The Court said it would see that a fair division was had. I would allow the Government to open and close. The Court did not know that the Government desired more than one closing argument, but had heard that the Attorney-General might wish to speak. "I don't know that I would call that two arguments," said Ingersoll sneeringly, "but I object to the precedent. If the Attorney-General wants to say a word in this case, let him have the courage to make his argument where he can be answered; not that I think it would do any particular harm, however. If he wants to make the closing argument, I should be delighted, but to two closing arguments, I object." Ingersoll insisted that he would refuse to make an address if the Government were allowed two closing arguments.

Railroad Pool.

A meeting of the general managers of all Pacific railroads on or about the 25th instant is contemplated at San Francisco. The Union Pacific; Denver & Rio Grande; Chicago, Burlington & Quincy; Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe; Texas & Pacific; Southern Pacific and Central Pacific roads will be represented. The object of the conference is to form a pool with the new Denver & Rio Grande Railroad for freight and passenger business.

President Arthur has disappointed the politicians and pleased the country in his choice of Postmaster-General. Judge Walter Q. Gresham, of Indiana, who is appointed to that responsible position, had scarcely been named in the discussions of the subject, and he came into the Cabinet without "backing" of any kind except that of his own record and character. The selection seems to have been entirely the act of the President, who, after a careful survey of the whole Western field, concluded that the Indiana Judge, being a gallant soldier, a clear-minded and upright jurist, and a gentleman of the strictest integrity, was pre-eminently adapted for the place and the completion of the work of reform which has been so happily begun in the Department. The testimony of all who know the appointee, is that the President has not erred in this conclusion, and the country will remember to his credit that, in this highly important appointment, he has consulted the best interests of the public rather than the demands of partisan necessity or the suggestions of partisan ambition.—Frank Leslie's.

THE CARSON PENITENTIARY.

A Party of Comstockers Visit the State Prison and Inspect Its Surroundings.

(Virginia Chronicle.)

Not long since the scientific world was amazed by the discovery of huge footprints in the yard to the south of the Carson State Prison. A party of Virginians through the courtesy of Mr. Fernum, Captain of the Guards, were allowed to inspect these tracks and other objects of interest around the penitentiary. On arriving at the prison the inmates were found to be exercising in the yard, some engaged in playing ball, others pitching quoits, others lounging, etc. This recreation is enjoyed by the prisoners on Sunday only and the hours are from 8 to 10 A. M. At the sound of a bell they immediately cease their sport, fall into line and are marched into the prison, two men counting the unhappy inmates as they pass in single file, the number afterward being announced by the guard on the wall. The remainder of the day is spent by the prisoners in reading, talking politics or amusing themselves as they see fit.

The prison quarry in which the footprints are found is surrounded on three sides by perpendicular cliffs from 12 to 13 feet high. The fourth wall is formed by the prison building itself. Guard-houses are stationed at regular intervals on the walls and guards with menacing guns are always alert to prevent an outbreak. A traveler is not allowed to approach within 20 feet of the walls, and even then he is covered by the guns of the guards until he is a considerable distance from the prison. The mammoth tracks were the principal features in which the party were interested. There are unmistakable tracks of elephants, birds, deer and many other animals. Indeed, Captain Fernum showed the party the scene of what was supposed to be a conflict between two gigantic of the human species. Plaster casts were taken of many of the footprints by a party of California scientists. During the visit of Professor Harkness of the California Academy of Sciences, that gentleman caused more excavations to be made in the quarry, which resulted in the uncovering of more footprints. These were a continuation of those found in the yard, and the stride indicated them to have been made by some gigantic quadruped.

The shoe shop, carpenter shop and other objects of interests were visited by the party, who expressed wonder at the skill of the convicts and the numerous appliances provided to aid the work. Also the neatness of the interior, as well as the surroundings. The attention paid by Captain Fernum and deputies was certainly not the least pleasurable of the party's experience.

ARMY CLAIMS.

Information for Persons to Whom the Government is Indebted.

The following Act of Congress is published for the information of all persons in this State interested therein: An Act to extend the time for filing claims for horses and equipments lost by officers and enlisted men in the service of the United States, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the time for filing claims for horses and equipments lost by officers and enlisted men in the military service of the United States, which expired by limitation on the 31st day of December, 1875, be, and the same is hereby, extended to one year from and after the passage of this Act; and that all such claims filed in the proper department before the passage of this Act shall be deemed to have been filed in due time, and shall be considered and decided without refiling.

Section 2. That all claims arising under the Act approved March 3, 1849, entitled "An Act to provide for the payment of horses and other property lost or destroyed in the military service of the United States," and all Acts amendatory thereof, which shall not be filed in the proper department within one year from and after the passage of this Act, shall be forever barred, and shall not be received, considered, or audited by any department of the Government.

Approved January 9, 1883. It is known that many residents of this State who served in the various Indian wars, as well as in that from 1861 to 1865, lost their private horses and equipments in such service.

The Act above quoted gives all such persons one year within which to file their claims for such losses.

Attention is called to the following provisions of this law, to-wit:

1. Losses in any of the Indian wars, in this or any other States or Territories, will be paid, as well as losses in the war of 1861 to 1865.

2. Losses by officers, enlisted men, scouts, guides and all other persons actually engaged in the military service, are included in the provisions of this law.

3. This law extends to losses in any manner not the result of the soldier's own fault or negligence. This includes losses in battle, by capture, for want of forage, by overheating, hard usage, accidents of all sorts, disease, theft by deserters, from forced marches, or from any other cause arising in the line of military duty.

4. The time for filing these claims expires January 8, 1884. All such claims not presented to the proper department of the United States by this date will be forever barred; but if the application is filed prior to January 8, 1884, the proof necessary to complete the claim may be filed at any date.

Reduction Wanted.

A petition is in circulation, asking the postal authorities to reduce post-office box rent at Bodie from $2 to $1 per quarter. Postmaster Holmes favors the reduction, believing that thrice as many boxes will be taken at $1 as are now taken at $2, and that the Government will sustain no loss by the change.

NORTHERN RAILROAD TALK.

The Greenville Bulletin publishes the annexed:

A communication appeared in the last week's issue of the Lassen Advocate on the subject of railroad connection between the counties of Lassen and Plumas and the Central Pacific Railroad. After alluding to the great possibilities of Lassen as an agricultural region, and to Plumas for its mining resources, the writer suggests that the people of both counties might unite and build a road themselves with their own means. He admits that each county would have to build a branch road through its own territory, and then says that these branches would be united and the rest of the road finished by joint effort. The writer further admits that he is imperfectly acquainted with the geography of this region; very little inquiry would have taught him that such branches as he proposes must be continued as far as the present terminus of the Nevada and Oregon railroad before they could connect, or very nearly that far. This being so there is nothing left requiring any joint action of the two counties. A branch road from either county to be of any service must be at least sixty miles in length to reach the N. & O. road; every dollar of capital now in both counties is needed to carry on the present business; it is simply impossible for either county to build sixty miles of railroad, not to speak of equipments. If Lassen or Plumas county, or both, is to have a railroad the capital to build it must come from somewhere else.
